

|  |   |   |
|--|---|---|
| An animal which eats both plant and animal matter                             | The bodies of dead animals, usually found in nature in the process of decay.     | The area in which an animal travels in the scope of normal activities to meet its needs and is not defended. |
| The arrangement of food, water, shelter and space suitable to animals' needs. | A physical characteristic that helps an animal use its habitat more efficiently. | The number of animals of a given type which can be supported in a given area.                                |
| Ability to use body parts like a hand to grasp things.                        | Influences that affect the well-being of an animal or population of animals.     | The act of one animal killing another animal for food.   |
| Polar bear, grizzly bear, black bear  | Any bear population threatened with extinction.                                  | Legal designation for animals which may be managed and hunted only under regulation                          |

|  |   |  |
|--|---|--|
| Blond, tan, brown, cinnamon and black.Various shades of brown, black, white (kermode), and blue (glacier). | Animal foraging for its own food, shelter and other needs in an environment that serves as a suitable habitat. | What an animal does.  |
| Bear that lives close to humans and occasionally feeds on garbage.  | Agency responsible for wildlife and its management.  | A Young Bear is called ?A female bear is a ?A male bear is called ? |
| The period of time when the female will accept the male for breeding.   | The appearance of growth rings in a tooth that is used to determine age.                                       | A person who studies living organisms and their relationship to one another.  |
| The interrelationships of wildlife with one another and with the various elements of their environment.         | The use of natural resources in a way that assures their continuing availability to future generations.        | In wildlife usage, forbs are weeds and herbs.                                 |